Students, alumni, and faculty from ALL iSchool programs are encouraged to join iDiversity and actively contribute to this new and exciting group bringing together the rich expertise and cultural perspectives of the iSchool community. This is the first group of its kind in the LIS Education community.
In the event of inclement weather, faculty, staff and students should check the USG website after 6 a.m. or call (301) 738-6000 to determine if the Center is closed or delayed. Closures and delays will be sent over the Campus notification system via email or mobile text message.” To sign up, go to: http://www.shadygrove.umd.edu/campus-services/public-safety/campus-alerts/usg-alerts-signup

Messages will also be placed with local TV & radio stations. If you feel that the weather poses too much of a threat for you to conduct class, you should contact students via e-mail or telephone as well as your program coordinator and Student Services at x6000 for posting of cancellations.

Your instructors may also communicate campus closures and class cancellations directly with their students. However, we cannot guarantee that a given instructor will perform such communication. So, we encourage you to seek information about campus closures through a variety of sources, including the notification system mentioned above.
